Anaphraseus Full Crack is a modern tool which allows you to translate text from and to various languages in your own dictionaries. The utility has been designed to provide a quick way to make translation from multiple languages available in your workplace. It makes this process even faster when you use automated translation technologies, but it also supports your local dictionary (fallback), as well as your Google and Microsoft Translate engines. Anaphraseus Review: After installation, it adds a new menu entry to your OpenOffice interface, and a new toolbar you can even remove if you wish. It also adds a menu entry called Translation Memory which is a very useful functionality, and an opportunity to configure new sources, and import them into the system. It's a small application with simply tools designed to provide support when opening and working documents in multiple languages. Developer: Vasily Anaphraseus The Road Ahead Updated: January 26, 2016 What's new: Powerful dictionaries management and filtering Added tr_langcode attribute For developers or global translators Anaphraseus is a product designed to perform well. The company has earned trust for its products, with quality standards which aim at providing the best service to users. Please note that the free version limits the number of translations to only 25 words, and it is advisable to upgrade if you want to get the full functionality of the application. Q: Kendo UI Dialog Window won't show up I have a Kendo UI button that when clicked, opens a modal Kendo UI Dialog Window. The window pops up, but is empty. For some reason the content is only shown when I'm on the page initially. Once I click the button, the dialog is empty and I can't figure out why it isn't showing the content. I've tried moving the javascript file and tag order but no luck. Any suggestions would be greatly appreciated. Here is the button I'm using: And here is the function I'm calling when the button is clicked:

function enableTab(button, target) { var body = $('body'); $('#' + target).data("kendoTabStrip").hide(); $('#' + target).append($("").addClass("k-animation-container").css("height","768px").css("width","100%").append("" + button + "")); $('.k-animation-container').fadeIn(); $('.k-animation-container').fadeOut(1000); // Bring the tabstrip back $('#' + target).fadeOut(1000, function () { body.removeClass("tab-strip-open").addClass("tab-strip-no-border"); }); }

 A: You need to make sure that dialog is visible before calling enableTab I assume that `body.removeClass("tab-strip-open").addClass("tab-strip-no-border");` is the content of `enableTab(button, target)` because otherwise it does not make sense to fade out the dialog before setting the 09e8f5149f
