Adobe Photoshop Elements version 14.0 is the newest edition of the popular software and also the first version to introduce its HDR photography features. At the end of 2018, Adobe announced that the last update to Photoshop Elements would be released in 2020, signalling the end of life for the software. Photoshop Elements is now retired While anyone who has used Photoshop Elements before knows how easy it is to use, Photoshop is not available to download any more, and Photoshop Elements 14 has been shut down. Incidence of ophthalmic diagnoses in a cohort of urban diabetic patients in Bogotá, Colombia. To assess the frequency of diabetic retinopathy and diabetic macular edema in a sample of diabetic patients in Bogotá, Colombia. A total of 305 consecutive patients diagnosed with type 2 diabetes mellitus were selected from outpatient practices in Bogotá, and were evaluated by an ophthalmologist using three-field stereoscopic retinal photography. Data obtained included demographics, diabetes history, and visual function. The patients were further investigated with hemoglobin A1c; fasting plasma glucose, urinary albumin:creatinine ratios and lipid profiles; and the presence of retinopathy and diabetic macular edema (DME) detected through stereoscopic retinal photography. Data were statistically analyzed using the chi-squared test and binary logistic regression. Retinopathy was found in 18.2% of the study sample; DME was found in 5.8%. Retinopathy was diagnosed in 9.5% of the patients with glycated hemoglobin less than 8% and in 30.8% of the patients with glycated hemoglobin greater than or equal to 8%. Retinopathy was associated with hemoglobin A1c values greater than or equal to 8% in contrast to DME, which was significantly associated with glycated hemoglobin values less than 8%. A significant association was found between retinopathy and patients younger than 50 years of age and a family history of diabetes, as well as between DME and glycated hemoglobin and body mass index. Retinopathy was significantly associated with hypertension in the logistic regression, while DME was significantly associated with glycated hemoglobin, body mass index, and hyalinosis of the optic disc. Retinopathy was found in 18.2%, and DME was found in 5.8% of a cohort of diabetic patients in Bogotá. Retinopathy was found to be significantly associated with hemoglobin A1c greater than or equal to 8%, while DME was significantly associated with glycated hemoglobin, body mass index, and hyalinosis of the optic disc.David Bianchi David Bianchi (born November 6, 1988) is an American actor and singer. [Atypical and pleomorphic cases of chronic lymphocytic leukemia]. Chronic lymphocytic leukemia (CLL) is the commonest leukemic disorder in the Western countries. However it represents a large, heterogeneous group of diseases with a variable clinical course. These patients may be subdivided into typical or atypical ones, depending on the most conspicuous features of the disease. Atypical forms may be classified into 3 groups: 1) progressive clinical course with lymphocytosis, plasma cell hyperplasia and a variable degree of immunodeficiency; 2) progressive clinical course without lymphocytosis or plasma cell hyperplasia, and 3) indolent clinical course with stable lymphocytosis. Atypical forms as well as those with progressive clinical course without lymphocytosis or plasma cell hyperplasia (for example progressive lymphocytosis) may be treated according to the conventional approaches used for typical CLL. However, the real role of treatment in the atypical forms is still under discussion. The CLL is usually associated with multiple autoimmune disorders, most frequently primary biliary cirrhosis (PBC). The presence of PBC at the time of diagnosis of CLL significantly increases the risk of fulminant liver dysfunction. Although the treatment of CLL is still based on corticosteroids, CLL-related autoimmune disorders should be treated with specific immunosuppressive therapy. Finally, a correct clinical classification and appropriate therapy will permit to make an accurate prognosis of the disease.Pages Monday, May 6, 2013 Testing the Waters with Pie I love the pie recipe my grandma gave me when I was younger. It's a popular recipe in Trinidad and Tobago, it's called the'sweet potato pie', and it always makes me feel good when I eat it. It has a kind of tangy pie like flavor, a bit sweet, and usually has chunks of sweet potato. It's a popular dessert eaten all over, with corn meal dough used as a crust. A moment that I used to love was helping my grandma roll out the cornmeal dough, I'd kinda help by dabbing some corn meal on her hands. That memory would slowly fade away as I grew up, especially when I moved to Canada in grade six and the pie makers did not wear aprons when they rolled out the dough. On one of the first days of school in first grade, when I was in the second class teacher's classroom, I
