I have deployed my web app and it's working fine locally. When I push it to the production and test it on production, I use my production domain as subdomain (www.example.com/project) which is working fine. When I try to access to the index.php (that is working on my local development) on my production domain, nothing is working, and I get a "404 Not Found". I thought it was an Apache issue but checking my Apache access log, the 404 Not Found for the index.php is not there. If I browse to www.example.com, I can go through the app on my production domain. So, it's just something with this subdomain. I checked the Apache access logs and I can't find the 404 Not Found for any request of any other file (other than index.php) A: Because when you were testing the app on your localhost, the subdomain was pointing to 127.0.0.1:80. Your production environment obviously has a different port (like 443) so the app can't access it. Q: Trying to run a script every hour, but It gets stuck in a infinite loop I want to run the following script every hour, However, when I change my /etc/cron.hourly to */1 * * * * /home/user/script.

www.shbsoftsolutions.com A Virtual Organization (VO) is an entity (group of people) created for marketing, sales and other purposes. A VO is where a company is represented by a single individual or a small group (of some company's employees or professionals) that works in a specific territory for the company. This is a new concept where a company decides to have a marketing team; basically any team that requires expertise in a particular field. Such a team can be developed in-house, by recruiting experienced employees as a part of a company or as an outsourced team. Why do we need a VO? 1.Marketing Marketing team helps companies acquire and maintain customers. A VO provides the flexibility to the company to expand or contract in the field, local or region wise. 2.Sales A VO helps sales representatives/associates to establish new accounts in their area of operations. 3.Account Management A VO gives an overview of the company. A VO administrator can have accounts list from within the software. 4.Charity Campaign VO helps in promotion of charities. Sales people can promote a charity within the sales territory. A VO provides flexibility to the company in the following ways: – Ability to scale or focus the marketing activity on the specific regions. – Allowing for outsourcing of the marketing activity to an approved group of people. – Multilevel management of the geographical structure. – A fully functional CRM, accessible to all team members. How can a VO work in your business? VO can be used in the following situations: 1.Company has grown and become a consumer of a service and it requires a full time person to manage the account. 2.Company has grown and multiple geographic divisions require them to have their own team. 3.Company has a need to have one person handle multiple accounts and needs a dedicated team to work with them. How can a VO be made? 1. You must have a company set up for employees and the sale area. The best product for this is www.restaurant.com 2. Create the different divisions. Create teams and assign them to a particular area (Sales, Marketing or customer service). Each team may be assigned to a specific area. For example, a salesman could be assigned to sales and their sales team could be assigned to different states. 6a5afdab4c

Yes that is correct, and he will become the 11th Doctor to grace our screens. And it turns out that the next Doctor was a well-known and highly regarded Doctor. In fact if you took a poll of you would guess "the next Doctor" to be a black Australian male. And of course, that is just what we would expect given the character's past. Take a step back and think of a "mature age" black male in the UK, who has always had to fight not only racism, but ignorance, prejudice and stereotypes. Sure, some of the episodes haven't been stellar, but Doctor Who's portrayal of his own race has been hugely positive. Here's an interesting little gem that the BBC posted in which explains some of these amazing elements of Doctor Who: The Doctor doesn't just talk about a lack of racism, but about being made to feel less than because of his blackness. A journalist asks, "You're black aren't
