PDF files are no longer just for printing documents. Any piece of text, image, or data can be converted into a PDF document using a text editor, graphics software or even a Web browser. In fact, PDF documents are the most popular file format in existence today and they are frequently used to distribute various types of information. The Utralshareware Ultra PDF Printer is a product that will help you convert any type of document into a PDF document. Although you may already have a PDF document that you need to convert to a file, you will still need a program that can do this. What Is Ultra PDF Printer? A PDF file is a special type of compressed file that stores the data for a document using a specific format for high-quality printing. In fact, the first PDF documents were simply files in the ".pdf" extension that enabled a high-quality version of a document to be viewed on any computer platform. Now, PDF documents are much more than just a form of storage for documents. Modern software, such as Microsoft Office, Adobe Acrobat

Reader, and various text editors, can create, modify, and convert any type of document into a PDF file. However, these programs can't directly render the document onto a virtual printer. This makes it hard or impossible to print documents on paper. Most desktop software will only let you print the file or convert it to a different format, such as PostScript, which most printers will then render. Nevertheless, there are several programs that can translate your documents into a special file called a PostScript file. Once the PostScript file is downloaded to a printer, the printer will take over the task of rendering the document, rather than the software, so it will print exactly as the document was originally written. The real advantage of this file format is that it's universal. It supports high quality color, ligatures, graphics, and most other features that a full-featured publishing application would do. This means that documents can be printed on paper with a high degree of fidelity. PDF documents, however, use a specific file format that will not work on any printer. It only renders documents via a generic printer driver. This means that if you send a PDF file to a different printer, you can be sure that you will get a poor representation of the original document. This is a common problem for anyone who has received bad copy of a company's logo, magazine advertisement, or any other document that is
