As one of the greatest selling baseball games of all time, MLB The Show is built for both casual and hardcore fans, and it's the only MLB game that's been rated Xbox One Â Game of the YearÂ by Game Informer Magazine. MLB The Show brings to the game over 600 players including current MLB stars, all-time greats, fictional characters, and real-life legends. MLB The Show is the most authentic MLB game, featuring real life rosters and stadiums, as well as new over-the-top stats and achievements. On top of that, it's the first baseball game to include player cards that provide a unique look at each player and trade to dissect. MLB The Show 19 builds on the legendary gameplay of past MLB The Show games while introducing big changes, fun new features, and 20 + Â MLB MomentsÂ . MLB The Show 19's biggest addition is, of course, the new player cards. Each card has a unique look at the player, as well as insight into their personality and history, and a look at their current player card in the game. Like the card packs, you can trade cards for players and even re-roll errors. New player cards in the game include Aroldis Chapman (NY Yankees), George Springer (Houston Astros), Erik Karlsson (Vancouver Canucks), and many more. MLB The Show 19 also has a new card-to-card system, offering a more rewarding and social experience. This is in addition to a new character creation system with new player and apparel designs. MLB The Show 19 also includes the "MLB Moments" -- a new feature that's a compilation of plays that are part of MLB history. The biggest addition to The Show is, as you might expect, the new player cards. Like all the past versions of The Show, the cards go from rookies to Hall of Famers, and then beyond. The game's new cards not only give players unique looks and personality, but also historical and current information. New cards this year include Aaron Judge (New York Yankees), Rich Hill (San Francisco Giants), Nathan Eovaldi (Miami Marlins), Bryce Harper (Washington Nationals), David Ortiz (Boston Red Sox), Mike Trout (Los Angeles Angels), Aroldis Chapman (New York Yankees), George Springer (Houston Astros), and more. The new player cards will also offer more insight than ever before. As you dig deeper into a player, you'll see more cards from each
