In addition to jobs in the fields of manufacturing, construction, and transportation, there are many types of service industry jobs in the Bay Area. If you enjoy working with people, many of the available service jobs aren't like typical 9 to 5 positions. Here are five of our favorites in the Bay Area: 1. Bartender Bartenders at fancy places can earn almost as much as chefs, sometimes much more. But bartenders can also work in less expensive restaurants, have great benefits, and work flexible hours (it's the perfect job for the rocker with the hard-working wife!). The bartender's most important job is to ensure that patrons get the drinks they order. Bartenders are experts at working with alcohol and making customers happy, so if you love to interact with people and have good skills at math, this is a great job for you. 2. Cleaner San Francisco's cleaner jobs are plentiful. Cleaning is a great opportunity to earn while you learn a new skill, and you can often find yourself doing more than your job description says. Cleaning helps build customer trust and signals to employers that you value the company. Cleaners should expect to start at below minimum wage, but many get raises in their first few months. 3. Tutor The Bay Area's booming field of online learning means that tutoring is more in-demand than ever before. Tutors are critical in helping college students succeed in STEM programs, and tutoring is a great introduction to the work world for people who are currently in college or going back to school. Tutoring gives you a great understanding of how college works, the ins and outs of college admissions, and the needs of future college students. 4. Home Health Aide This
