If that Todo has child Todos, then I need to do so recursively until TodoTasks is empty. Currently I am selecting the record, altering the data, then updating the Todo and finally updating the parent. var todo = context.Todos.Include("TodoTasks") .First(o => o.Id == id); todo.TODO.Tasks.TaskID = newTaskID; context.SaveChanges(); I have tried context.Entry(todo).State =

I'm just an ordinary housecat living in a quiet suburb of London with my owner, one other cat and one other girl. I am the bassist and vocalist of my own band, the Whispers. I have a wonderful, charming and clever owner who often lets me do whatever I want whenever I want. My owner also lends me his love of his hobbies (gardening, photography, sailing and motorbikes) and we love spending time with our other two friends. My other friends are all individual girls, some of which I know I'll live longer with than with my owner. I've actually had quite a boring life. Basically nothing ever happens to me. I've had no spectacular battles, I've never fallen in love and my life is uneventful. I've never had any tragic deaths, I've never been abducted, I've never been taken hostage, I've never been gang-raped, I've never been poisoned, I've never had a bomb put on my head. I've never had any one of my own, and I've never lost one. I've never even lost my job! In fact, my life seems to be one ordinary, unevent
