It lies approximately east of Kępno and south-east of the regional capital Poznań. References Category:Villages in Kępno CountyThe Federal Reserve Board will reinstate its index that tracks the five-year Treasury bond yield as its benchmark, economists and market participants said Tuesday. The shift would signal the end of the Federal Open Market Committee's more than five years of maintaining the less sensitive 2-year-to-10-year yield's role as a benchmark for the Federal Funds rate, the interest rate the government borrows for short-term funding. The index Fed President William Dudley said would be reinstated, which has used the five-year Treasury yield since the index was created in December 2015, was last updated in October and stood at 1.11%. Tuesday's announcement from the Dallas Fed shows its yield has risen to 1.24% from October, a level that is currently the target for Fed interest rate hikes this year. The move could be taken as a signal that the Fed's decision on interest rates for its widely anticipated first interest rate hike of 2018 "is imminent," several market participants told CNBC. Dudley said he would seek to establish "additional benchmarks that reflect the evolving outlook for financial conditions" to complement the tools he said the FOMC has already built. That means the economy is in a "trend" of improving, he said at the Fed's annual symposium, which he chaired. "As long as that is our central tendency, that's where we're going to start. So it means, there's no immediate need to recalibrate where we
