The Wavedash Team created Icon's Combat Arena as a love letter to the genre. A team of fans with a dream to make a good fighting game out of the first party classics featured in the franchise. The idea was to bring the familiar characters and game design of franchise platform fighting games, to a free-to-play model so anyone, anywhere could enjoy them online. Over the course of a few months with no budget, Wavedash presented a fight to the people. The Icons: Combat Arena team released eight unique characters, dozens of costumes for each character and taunts for the character to share their unique personality. They made this game so you can play it without spending any money. A big problem in the future of free-to-play gaming was introduced. Wavedash: Hello / Woohyun / Yulhee / Yoonhoo / Jejim / Hoonhoo. We have let it play out for over a year. Wavedash was working on a love letter to the genre. It was fun, deep, challenging, and necessary. It was a platform and franchise fighting game. We've never been able to make it where we could support and keep it going. With the last bit of development we made the most great and fun characters. The fans poured their love and support into our game and along with our team, we were able to make something we are very proud of. Roster You've been requesting it, we're giving it to you. Who doesn't love a good ol' headbutting? Let's talk about these dudes! Andromalius (aka Hercules): A handsome swordsman with the power to deflect any attack. Why is he a headbutt boss? He's got a powerful headbutt move - Wavewham. He says, "Come get some!" The King of Wimps: A force-wielding archer with the power to detach opponents in mid-air. Why is he a headbutt boss? He's got a powerful wave of fire - Firewham. He says, "Hey, fire-lady!" Dr. Horrible: A bruiser with the power to hold his own in a high-speed rushdown and then occasionally catch opponents in mid-air. Why is he a headbutt boss? You know him

Fantasy Grounds - Deadlands Reloaded: Blood Drive 2 is another strategy video game that's a bit different. It revolves around point-to-point movement, limited directives, and a bare-bones, impromptu mechanic.
By virtue of being limited, it presents an exercise in limitations. It's not a "critter killing" game, but it seems to be. It's a one-turn game of movement, tough choices, and tension. The tension is a thrilling part.
A bonus: a heavy focus on the mythical Deadlands setting.

Fantasy Grounds - GateWorld Online: Age of Exploration Game Key features:

- GateWorld Online: Age of Exploration can be played solo, or grouped. It's designed to function with 1-5 friends who want to enjoy an RTS game focused on team strategy and PvP. As a solo player, this game begins off as a 3x3 grid battle, but adds grid objects as the match continues.
- GateWorld Online: Age of Exploration mixes free-roam battlefields with a strategic mapobject system that gives players all character abilities, classes, and infantry support to survive the battlefield. Players must travel between battles with an interface that combines fast melee and heavy-duty weapons with map-guided dogs.
- GateWorld Online: Age of Exploration includes a ton of features, much like a webapp or a mobile game, including a user profile, saving stats, chat, mission board, and cinematics. Free-roam multiplayer-only maps include areas of the gameworld that stretch to infinity. These map

Fortress Forever is a Team Fortress remake that takes place in a classic medieval setting. It was originally released in September of 2007. In Fortress Forever, each team plays for a castle. The goal of the game is to destroy the opposing team's castle. With Curse of Osiris, we are celebrating the release of our brand new free to play server. More information: For everyone who likes roses, it's time to get some! PetalGate is a new, beautifully detailed bot lane map. No long walls, no mismatched nodes, and a lovely dead end in the fountain. If you're looking for a bot lane map that's friendly to the best bot lane in the world, PetalGate is the one for you. It's not without a few small annoyances and kinks to be worked out, but it's totally playable in a bot lane match-up. Although the map is pretty, it's not all about pretty. With a few skillful moves, you may be able to sneak behind enemy lines and strike from the shadows. There's a wonderful mechanism on this map that, if you can execute it, will let you go in no time. As a bot lane, you'll find a strategic race to the fountain. Ready to attack! By playing PetalGate, you automatically become a skilled rogue. Can you completely avoid getting caught? You can freely roam this map with ease. If you're in the fountain, you're in danger. Nefarious guards will keep you on your toes. Here's a close up of the fountain. It's capable of producing a nasty surprise. Help! No walls, and I was attacked by the fountain. Will you come to my rescue? It seems to be the hottest weather on the planet right now, so we've given in and created this map. It's small, really, but it's worth your time just to experience the feeling of cooling in the middle of all that desert heat. Who needs wall pieces when you can throw down a couple of banners? This small map is perfect for TDM matches in the SPL. We'll see you down there! A quick preview of what you can expect from this map: - Recruitments open soon! c9d1549cdd

Vampire: The Masquerade - Shadows of New York Soundtrack is a soundtrack album to Vampire: The Masquerade - Bloodlines, the second game in the Vampire The Masquerade series developed by Far Saelics. It was released in September 2000, and composed by Jim Pavelec, Tim Wright, and Mattias Ulvstrup. The soundtrack was followed by the Video Game Symphony by Jim Pavelec. In contrast to the first Vampire: The Masquerade soundtrack, the second soundtrack is more melodic in nature, containing themes with an operatic pitch range, which is lacking in the first soundtrack. Both soundtracks are quite similar in theme and may be considered the same material. Compilation The soundtrack of each of the two Vampire: The Masquerade-related soundtracks are merged to create a single project. Visual art The image on the cover features the main character protagonist from the game itself. This character was designed by Scott Murphy. On the inner sleeve are the names of Far Saelics developers for the project and the programmer who worked on it. The backside of the CD itself features a picture of Claire Shaeffer. Music The following table lists the track numbers and titles. Other soundtracks The soundtrack was incorporated into Far Saelics' Original Soundtrack for Nights Watch, released in 2001. Ninja Scroll In March 2012, Mattias Ulvstrup performed a violin, double bass, and vocals concert accompanying the video game Ninja Scroll for the stage, entitled Theater of Madness by Mattias Ulvstrup. On February 25, 2013, the Japanese Horrorcore band Dreadful Shadows released a video clip of the new track "Transmigration" for the project. On March 3, 2013, Far Saelics announced that they would release a vocal track of the new track "Oblivion"? for an upcoming album titled The Darkest Hour.
