That, according to the popular understanding of a Christian life, has always been the purpose of every Christian. This is the purpose of the Church. In 1 Corinthians 1:27, Paul said, "Christ in you is the hope of glory." That, in other words, is my purpose. I am not just a Christian, I am a vocation to holiness. I live in a world where every kind of human morality—every kind of moralism—has become the dominant ethic. The dominant ethic is worldly. It is a utilitarian ethic. And its central concern is the well-being of others—the greatest happiness of the greatest number. And it is self-regarding. It assumes every other being is for me to use, to exploit, to consume. The ethic of self-interest is now the ethic of the world. That is not the ethic of Christianity. Indeed, the Gospel is the subversion of worldly ethics. So I am a Christian who is a vocation to holiness. I am not just a Christian, I am a Christian vocation. Now, for me that is a calling to what Jesus calls living in the world without being of the world—so that we can be a blessing in the world, no less than we are called to be a blessing in the church. Theologians have said that this is a call to sanctity. Well, they are wrong. There are two kinds of sanctity—and, if there are not two kinds, there is only one kind of sanctity. The second kind of sanct

Days of WoW Days of WoW is a 2005 American comedy-drama film based on the real-life story of a group of college friends who play World of Warcraft (or WoW as it is often known in popular culture). It is a dramatized account of the same subject in the 2005 feature-length documentary Paranoia. It was directed by Craig Brewer and stars Denis Leary as Ken, Eugene Levy as Chuck and Mary Steenburgen as Dawn. American television and film actors Jason Marsden, Nikki Blonsky, Jerry O'Connell, Frank Collison, and Max Perlich also star. Cast Denis Leary as Ken Eugene Levy as Chuck Mary Steenburgen as Dawn Michael Dorn as Roy Jason Marsden as Brandon Kim Chize as Lisa Nikki Blonsky as Val Alex Zahara as Marci Jerry O'Connell as Police detective Frank Collison as Andy Max Perlich as Torvo Dean Delray as Barbed Wire Lauren Williams as Erica Production On January 22, 2005, executive producer Craig Brewer called a press conference in Los Angeles, California, to announce that the script for the film was completed and that the production of the film began shooting in January 2005. Filming took place in Los Angeles, California. On January 28, 2005, Brewer announced that the film had completed pre-production. The cast was announced on May 23, 2005. On June 24, 2005, it was announced that the film was in post-production. The post-production of the film costed about $10 million. Brewer noted that it was known that he would receive at least $1 million from United States of America's Motion Picture Association of America (MPAA), because he did not submit any of his movies for rating. Brewer stated: "I really feel that we can't get a great movie made if you don't submit anything to the MPAA. They had a conference, and at the conference they were like 'we'll get you a million dollars, but if you don't submit something, we can't get you anything.' So we put in four scripts and they gave us a million dollars." References External links Category:2005 films Category:2000s comedy-drama films Category:American comedy-drama films

□Online Information□ ● “online Battle” and Ranking * Online Battle is where you confront other players and battle it out to the death. The game ends when either one of you reaches certain HP or a predetermined amount of time expires, whichever comes first. The leader of the winning party is ranked first, and second, and so on. Higher-ranked users are marked as such in their profile. * Rank-up Points (RUP) are obtained by defeating opponents and obtaining EXP. By defeating enemies, you can earn different kinds of EXP, and by leveling up, you can increase the amount of RUP you receive. During battle, you can also determine what kind of EXP you’ll receive by reading the top of your HP bar. * Rank-up Points are used to raise your character’s level, and in some cases, you can also obtain items and equipment that can benefit your character. * Various ranks can be achieved in order to raise your character’s level up to the maximum. * For example, reaching “Expert” rank is possible by obtaining RUP of 4,000 for one character, or 300,000 for multiple characters. * “Battle Ranking” is an online ranking similar to that of rankings in sports games. Here, the top players are ranked first, second, and so on, based on how frequently they are online. * Online currency, as well as in-game items, can be purchased with “online Battle” currency. * You can also rank up with other users by using “Challenge Tickets” and “Challenge Coins.” “Challenge Tickets” can be obtained by going on quests in open world, or through various quests inside the dungeon. “Challenge Coins” are obtained by defeating monsters in the dungeon. You can use the coins to purchase various items through the first day following the purchase. (For example, you can purchase 3 coins by using 1) * After you defeat a boss in the dungeon or get a bounty, you can receive “challenge coins” to purchase items by using the coins obtained from defeating monsters. * You can use the coins you have purchased to raise your character’s level, items, and magic. “CARD SYSTEM” ● “Job” System * As the name suggests, Job represents the class of
