The file is a Windows kernel component of low level network driver and available to the service to check the existence of another network device. Not installed in a pre-boot OS or after system reinstall. The file is located in the \windows\system32\drivers\etfx\ subfolder.

Windows Xp Sp3 Pro Black Widow Lite Edition

Black Widow is an interesting and powerful antivirus. But it's only big and heavy for a desktop antivirus because it needs to check all files, folders and registry entries. To get this, it uses a lot of system resources. On desktop computers Windows is installed on the C drive but antivirus software needs to run on a stand-alone partition because their memory is not enough to scan all files and folders in the root of the hard disk. You can find a partition for antivirus software at the end of the hard disk and if you don't insert it, Windows will install antivirus software on the C drive. So, there is a limit to the root size of this antivirus software. Black Widow Lite Edition is not capable of scanning the C: drive. So, users need to remove this partition to use Windows XP SP3 x86 pro Black Widow Lite Edition. The file to do that is installed by default on the antivirus software:

C:\Windows\System32\sysprep\sysprep.exe /oobe /quiet /oobeE /norestart Preparing Windows XP SP3 x86 pro Black Widow Lite Edition
