In my opinion, this is precisely the "tearful" moment in the film, when at the end of the film she says that all her hopes for a happy life have burst and she is left alone with her daughter. Very penetrating. In general, it is not in vain that the film was in the top ten films about children from 2011 to 2018 according to IMDB and Kinopoisk. P.P.S. As most tourists do, we decided to stop here for the quick visit. We are trying to emphasize the value of Kiruna after knowing it was the city with the highest level of happiness in the world. In general, we think Kiruna is an example of how to have a wonderful life. How are we able to achieve this? The answer is that we try to be clever and take a little advantage of everything around us. But first of all, being clever is not something we believe. Also, we do not want to see Kiruna as an exclusive club, but rather as a place where anyone can get a great experience regardless of his background. With this in mind, we visited the city in February and built the amusement park with the purpose of enjoying the value of the place without having to search for it. Also, we believe that it's a big advantage to enjoy the state of happiness of a park that is open to all and that has with good reasons a great number of visitors.Q: linq query error My Linq query is giving me the following error: The Number '10' is out of range of type 'double' Here is my code DataContext db = new DataContext(); var list = (from d in db.invcSearchDetails c6a93da74d
