A: You are using wget to download a HTTP web page. If you visit the URL that contains your login page directly in your browser, it will give you an option to "autologin". This simply causes wget to use that option. It is a bit of a hack, but it is possible. Anyway, as soon as you type in your username and password in wget, the site presents an HTML form with POST information to a PHP page. PHP then does some weird stuff and tries to redirect to a new URL. You are probably seeing this one because it is a different domain and your cookies won't transfer from a non-Tor website. The point is that instead of seeing a login screen, the server is actually preventing you from authenticating with it. The only way you'll see this screen is if you bypass the server entirely with a file descriptor, e.g., with lftp. The neurobiology of stress: role of the medial amygdala in the effects of stress on food intake and hypothalamic-pituitary-adrenal function. We have recently demonstrated that the medial amygdala (Me) is a neuroendocrine and an autonomic integration point involved in the production of hyperphagia during chronic stress. It appears that the Me may mediate the effects of stress on food intake and related endocrine and autonomic responses by acting directly on hypothalamic areas that control the hypothalamic-pituitary-adrenal (HPA) axis, and possibly by modulating HPA-axis- and forebrain-mediated feeding circuits. Moreover, the Me seems to be a crucial component in the physiological response to chronic stress, serving as a determinant of the behavioral expression of that stress.Q: Is it possible to add an unordered list element to a body element? I have a ul list that is set to display:none. When a user clicks on a link, it turns that ul list visible. $('#player ul').hide(); $('#player ul').click(function() { if($(this).css('display') == 'none') { $(this).show(); } else { $(this).hide(); } }); What I would like to do is make it that when I c6a93da74d
