[This report presents the results of an investigation of popular song hits licensed by ASCAP and BMI from 1940-53. Section I comprises summary tables showing the proportion of hit songs licensed by these organizations. Section II consists of annual lists of the 30 most popular song titles in each of seven popularity categories. REPORT NOT AVAILABLE] The government isn't very interested in prosecuting these people anyway. The gun licenses are generally privately owned and the government is (mostly) not allowed to enforce the law regarding firearm ownership. They are also very reluctant to prosecute crimes which, at least sometimes, involve a firearms. They see the firearms as belonging to the owner of the house (as in the case of a burglary) and are very reluctant to see them as representing a risk to public safety, despite the fact that the likely story is that they got into the wrong hands or that they have fallen into the wrong hands.
