Draft It! is a plugin that prevents the messages from being accidentally sent. To draft a message, select it from the message toolbar and click the Draft button. The message will become unavailable for sending but it will not go into the message-editor. To apply the draft to all messages in a folder, just select the folder, select the draft button in the toolbar and then click OK. All messages in that folder will be set as drafts. The so-called “fake news” phenomenon has seized on a new battleground—the world of politics.

Many believe that fake news is a tactic used by the left in an attempt to control the message. But the truth is that media outlets on both sides of the aisle use the tactic and propaganda outlets (sometimes backed by foreign governments) spread it as well.

Here is a guide on how fake news—and who is spreading it—on both sides of the aisle. What Is Fake News? Fake news is any news article that is deliberately designed to mislead the reader, which may be confusing, false, or even conspiratorial. Fake news can make the news cycle go viral and appear on the front page of a major news outlet, getting hundreds of thousands of views and making headlines. The spread of fake news can be attributed to several factors. As more sources of news become more readily available and people have more access to the internet, there is an increased amount of news flowing in on social media and the internet. When news is more accessible, there is a greater chance for people to believe it and it may be easier for them to believe it is correct because it has been published by a major news outlet. In 2017, there were more outlets that published fake news than real news, according to The Washington Post. Fake news is also increasing due to the rise of conspiracy theories and this trend has only been growing in popularity. Many believe the news they hear and read from the internet is the only way to stay informed, and news organizations must make it easier for them to trust their news. This is why conspiracy theories are so dangerous—they can spread very quickly because people who are being told something is true are more likely to believe it. How Is Fake News Spread? The fact that fake news can spread so quickly is the result of many different factors, including how each news outlet reports and publishes, the number of people being exposed to it, the incentives in the news industry, and the incentives of each outlet. Fake

1:26pm Hi Linda I have been unable to get the DII to work with Eudora 2007
but I did get it working with Eudora 2006 and I know that the DII
works with that version. Does anyone know why you can't get it to work with the latest version? Thanks for your comment. I have sent you a note via your contact form. Thanks

at 7:53pm Hi

Courtney, Your welcome. I was wondering about how the DII works with version 7 since

I really need that function for my work and I can't find any solutions. Comment

9:34pm Linda, I have a quick

question for you. I would like to import all of my e-mail into Eudora. Is there a program that can import into Eudora from Outlook?

Please 2edc1e01e8

The Draft It! plugin is a standard addition to any e-mail client. It prevents the messages sent by the client from being accidentally sent by doing two things: removing the selected e-mail message from the recipient's mailbox

(which would cause the message to be deleted) removing the message from the recipient's local inbox The e-mail client should be configured so that the draft of the message is automatically stored on the server. If the selected e-mail message is to be removed from the recipient's mailbox (and the draft is to be removed from the recipient's local inbox), click Draft It! Button on toolbar. If the selected e-mail message is to be sent (or if it has already been sent), click Draft It!

button, if a message has been selected in the recipient's mailbox. To control when Draft It!

plugin is to be enabled, start the email client and click:
Click System/Draft
