website. Metastatic cervical lymphadenopathy presenting as ureteric obstruction: report of a case. We report a case of unusual presentation of metastatic lymph node disease manifesting as ureteric obstruction. It is interesting that the ureteric obstruction was revealed by a routine pelvic sonogram performed for investigation of a right lower abdominal mass. The examination showed extensive metastatic lymphadenopathy involving the pelvic sidewalls and mesentery. The patient's symptoms and pelvic sonogram were confirmed by computed tomographic scan of the pelvis.

Q: Android: Custom Launcher. How to load custom MainActivity when system default launcher opens? I have created my own custom launcher using Custom Launcher of Android Studio. I have copied the default App Icons on the top of my custom layout. I also have a new activity MyHomeActivity. When the home screen is selected I want to start that activity. However, when the default Android Home Screen Launcher is open it always starts the default MainActivity, I want it to start my custom MyHomeActivity.

A: So it looks like the solution to this is that you must create an intent filter for the launch mode of your custom home screen launcher. Here is an example of the intent filter that I use for my custom home screen: [Surgical management of distal femoral fractures. A series of 45 cases]. The authors present 45 cases of distal femoral fractures, 43 women and 2 men, aged from 18 to 84
