Files! RomsetFactory (Install)-ReadMeLets Go To The GarettBy sliverZuzuu i Play Tiberian Sun By Death(Send me your code/serial) link : Repair a non-functional (broken?) Firebase push notification So this may be a strange question (and I'm not a programmer), but I'm doing some research and I can't seem to find any information about the issue I'm running into. I have an Ionic/Cordova app that we're developing. It works fine on our end. There are a few devices that it doesn't work on though. If you click on the notification, it never actually pops up. Instead, it just leads to the default system notification. The weird thing is that if you go into the Firebase console, go to "Settings > System", and click on the "Disable" button next to the app's name, it works fine. We also get an error in the Google Play console with this message: Service does not exist (domain: com.google.android.gms, package: com.example.app) We've gone through every option in our code, and we can't find anything. I can't seem to find any information on whether this is a common issue, or whether it could have something to do with the fact that it's not working on a few devices. Any help or input would be greatly appreciated. A: Thanks to @DavidCantrell, I was able to find the answer after a couple days of searching. You can find the answer here: Basically, the issue was the path to the "disable" function was incorrect. Q: Display previous previous with sum in mysql I have a problem with my query that I want to display the previous previous. My table name is data_transfer SELECT * FROM (SELECT data_transfer_event.user,SUM(data_transfer_event.amount) as amount_transferred, data_transfer_event.date FROM data_transfer_event GROUP BY user) t1 ORDER BY t1.date DESC; I want to display the next previous value for each user with SUM(amount_transferred) ORDER BY date DESC user amount_transferred date user1
